Attack On U.S. Convoy

12 American Troops Killed In the Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops raked a U.S. Army supply convoy from ambush along winding Route 14 in the central highlands but American tanks and helicopter gunships splintered the attackers.

The U.S. Command said 48 North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerrillas were killed in the short, midday fight nine miles north of Pleiku City Wednesday. Twelve Americans were killed, eight were wounded and soldiers of the South Vietnamese armored unit escorting the convoy suffered light casualties, the command said.

The enemy sprayed the 4th Infantry Division convoy with bazooka-type rockets and heavy automatic weapons fire and inflicted "moderate" damage on the vehicles, a command spokesman said. This indicated as many as a third of the trucks might have been damaged or destroyed.

Tanks and armored personnel carriers of the 3rd Vietnamese Armored Cavalry raced past the convoy to attack the ambush site, after the fight began at 11:15 a.m., and at 11:25 helicopter gunships sailed into the battle.

Fighter-bombers arrived at 11:59 and within minutes the enemy troops fled.

Army engineers with the convoy began clearing the narrow road, which links the 4th Division's headquarters near Pleiku with its units operating around Kontum and Dak To.

Just 17 hours later guerrillas ambushed a 30-vehicle convoy nine miles northeast of Saigon, on the highway to the big military base at Long Binh.

The U.S. Command said one American soldier and one enemy soldier were killed, and damage to the trucks was light, but the ambush underlined the threat from roving guerrilla bands operating in Saigon's suburbs.

At Khe Sanh, the 14th anniversary of the start of the siege of Dien Bien Phu passed with enemy gunners hitting the U.S. Marine combat base with a below-average barrage of 200 shells Wednesday. Casualties among the 7,000 Allied defenders of the base in northwestern South Vietnam were as usual described as light.

Because of similarities between the situation at Dien Bien Phu and at Khe Sanh, there had been speculation that Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese defense minister, might mark the anniversary with a show of force against the beleaguered base. Giap directed the 6-day siege of Dien Bien Phu had ended May 7, 1954, with the capitulation of the French.

Seek Retention Of Allocations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has appealed to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee not to undermine its majority position against Vietnam war policy by slashing the $3 billion foreign-aid bill.

"Don't shoot the innocent bystander," said William S. Gaud, chief of the Agency for International Development, at a committee hearing Wednesday.

But Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., who opposes the war, told Gaud Congress must weigh all money requests in light of the war's financial impact.

And another war policy critic, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said: "We've got to resolve our difficulties in Vietnam before I think we can go ahead with what I hope will be to enlarge the foreign-aid program eventually."

The $3 billion being sought is $600 million more than the current appropriation, which is the lowest in the 20-year history of the foreign-aid program.

Gaud's difficulties with the committee came as the Gallup Poll was reporting that 69 per

Talks About Kennedy

Talking to reporters at a county GOP committee reception in Huntington, N.Y., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says a decision by Sen. Robert F. Candidacy Announcement Expected From Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., will announce on Monday his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, the Herald-Examiner said today.

The report from the paper's political editor in Sacramento, Phil Hanna, added that Democrat Jesse M. Unruh, speaker of the California Assembly, will head a Kennedy delegation in the state's June 4 primary election.

Unruh told a news conference Wednesday that he had urged Kennedy to become a candidate but he said nothing about heading a delegation.

The Herald-Examiner gave no source for its information, saying only it had learned that Kennedy would announce.

Unruh is generally regarded as the state's most powerful Democrat, and political observers have speculated that he might try to wrest the governorship from Republican Ronald Reagan in 1970.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has stepped to the brink of presidential candidacy and a key aide says he'll make his decision in a week.

Kennedy huddled with political advisers in New York Wednesday night after saying in Washington he is reassessing whether to run against President Johnson.

The New York Democrat said the New Hampshire primary results removed "the major obstacle" to challenging Johnson—and said the vote demonstrated Democratic concern over Johnson policies.

But Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who drew an unexpectedly high 42 per cent of the New Hampshire Democratic vote, said he won't pull out of the race whatever the New Yorker decides to do.

"He's been reassessing his position all along the way," McCarthy told newsmen after a 20-minute meeting with Kennedy. "I said I intended to stay in the primaries and in the race," the Minnesotan added.

A close aide said Kennedy will make his decision by March 22, the deadline for entering the May 28 Oregon primary. And Kennedy said if he runs he probably would have to campaign actively in the primaries.

Kennedy said the major obstacle to his candidacy had been a fear of deeply dividing the Democratic party if he was suspected of personal ambition or personal animosity toward Johnson.

New Regional Area Set Up During Meeting

James Wear, Mayor of Ottumwa, and J. D. Richardson, agent of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, Ottumwa, and Mayor of Woodridge, attended the eight-county regional planning meeting Feb. 28, held in the courthouse at Fulton. The meeting was called to elect a temporary committee and to select a name for the region, which was called Mid-Missouri Region.

Each county elected a temporary representative for the preparation of the by laws. A date was then set for the next meeting, when permanent officers will be elected.

R. Sanford, Booneville, was elected to represent Cooper County.

Counties included in the region are Cooper, Moniteau, Cole, Osage, Howard, Boone, Calloway and Adrian.

Bonding Capacity Is Not Affected

The $1,050,000 industrial bonds proposal for a new plant for Town & Country Shoes, Inc., will not affect the bonding capacity of the city for other municipal projects it was reported today.

According to provisions in the constitution of the State of Missouri, the bonding limit for industrial purposes relative to industrial obligation bonds in Sedalia would be approximately $3,400,000 and is not subject to other indebtedness incurred under provisions of Article six of the Constitution.

The only limitation Sedalia has on industrial obligation bonds is an amount equal to 10 per cent of assessed valuation without regard to other municipal bonded indebtedness.

This simply means that with the Rival project of $750,000 and the Town & Country project of $1,050,000 that the city has a capability of voting $1,600,000 more in industrial obligation bonds. Naturally, there is no limit on industrial revenue bonds.

Bill Hall, director of Industrial Development, said today "What this simply means is that industrial obligation bonds do not have an effect on the city's bonding capacity for other programs such as water, sewer, municipal improvement — including airports and city halls."

"The industrial obligation bonds can be voted at no cost to the taxpayers because of the company's guarantee to pay a lease in an amount equal to the principal, interest and reserve fund in order to pay off the bonds.

"The lease is the same type of lease and the bonds are the same type of bonds that were voted in November of 1967 for Rival Manufacturing Company. We now have an opportunity to once again expand one of our major local industries. This is one of the best and most economical ways to keep Sedalia growing."

Says Tax Increase Is Vital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler declared today it is necessary that Congress pass a big income tax increase within 30 days.

While he was testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, gold sales in Europe skyrocketed.

Secretary Fowler

ed, and market observers said only firm action by the United States could restore public confidence.

Fowler told the committee he would welcome a tax hike more than twice as big as the 10 per cent surcharge proposed by President Johnson.

This development came as Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., suggested that it would be a good idea to go back to the income tax rates prevailing before they were reduced in 1964.

Fowler said this would bring in about $22 billion a year compared with the $10 billion in the President's proposal and added: "I would welcome this."

The secretary said that five factors made it urgent to get the income tax increase on the books at once:

1. "The highly volatile situation in the international monetary markets now is threatening the very preservation of the in-

Stampede For Gold In Many European Markets

LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush skyrocketed today in a buying spree that economic experts said threatens monetary anarchy.

London, Paris, Zurich and even the normally small Frankfurt market reported levels of sales that dealers had never dreamed possible.

Paris, where sales normally are two to three tons, had more than 40 tons. This was more than twice Wednesday's record high of 16 tons. The Bank of France was hard pressed to fill the demand. London dealers expected sales to top 200 tons.

There was a stampede for gold in Zurich. Frankfurt bankers said there was an unprecedented demand for bullion gold certificates and coins.

Dealers and both bullion and foreign exchange markets reported a complete collapse of confidence in paper money.

The pattern of sales in all markets showed the buyers were snatching up gold, silver and platinum in any sizes of ingots or coins.

This was an indication that even the grocer on the corner was switching his savings into something he considered safer and more solid than paper money.

"Only firm action by the United States to reduce its foreign payments deficit can now restore public confidence," one market observer commented.

Other sources expected either a complete breakdown of the seven-nation gold pool or official curtailment of sales. London dealers were frantically attempting to calm the panic and were making buyers pay higher and higher prices for the metal.

European financial circles looked to the United States to check the rush on gold. But despite warnings from European experts that the postwar prosperity was in danger of collapse, there was no prospect of immediate action in Washington.

London dealers added a full 5 cents to the price fixed at the opening and still sales were (See MONETARY, Page 4.)

Denies He Discussed RFK's Plans

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he did not talk with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy about his candidacy for the presidency at a meeting in Des Moines Saturday night.

He said he and Gov. Robert D. Dillingham of Kansas and Gov. William Guy of North Dakota were merely there to attend a campaign kickoff dinner for Gov. Harold Hughes of Iowa.

After the dinner Kennedy, the governor and their staff members met for an informal discussion.

"This was nothing more nor less than an opportunity for governors and a U.S. senator to sit down for a few minutes and discuss their favorite subject—politics," Hearnes said.

"Naturally, since Sen. Kennedy was present, we talked about the progress of the war in Vietnam and the differences in viewpoint between Sen. Kennedy and President Johnson."

"The discussion centered on concern about the war and its effect on politics—not on strategy for solving the war or changing the course of politics. Quite frankly, the visit produced nothing new. We discussed the same points about the war and about politics that everyone is familiar with through the news media."

Wheat, Feed Grain Sign-Up Ends Friday

The 1968 Wheat and Feed Grain sign-up ends Friday, March 15. The Pettis County Committee is very well pleased with the sign up so far with over 1,200 contracts signed. Approximately 30,000 acres will be diverted from corn and milo to a conserving use. Program participants will qualify for price support loans on the wheat, corn, and grain sorghums harvested for grain.

Wouldn't you like to buy smoked boneless lamb shoulder, marinated lamb or mutton in a boil-in-the bag package, or thrifty breakfast sausage made of lamb or lamb in combination with other meats? And how would you like to buy new convenience foods such as a precooked, ready to heat and serve, lamb curries, shiskebabs, and thrifty dishes made from lower priced lamb cuts, such as spiced lamb shanks and rice?

These products may be in your grocery store sometime in the future, thanks to research which will be conducted by Penn State Food specialists working under a 3½ year research project sponsored by USDA's Agricultural Research Service. The object of the research is to find new attractive, nutritious, and thrifty ways to use more lamb in the American diet.

Growing Herbs

We wish we could tell you that growing herbs on a window sill is easy, but in most homes and apartments you can expect only limited success with a few herbs.

Drawbacks to successful indoor herb growing are too much heat, not enough humidity, and often not enough sun.

To give it a try, start with a pot of chives and one of parsley you can buy from your local grocer or florist. Chives and parsley require a cool but sunny place. A cool, sunny windowsill can be hard to find. Turn the heat off, if a heat register is close, but unless the room is 60 to 65 degrees or lower at night you may not have the coolness required. Try a basement window.

To raise the humidity in the air around a flower or herb pot, USDA Horticultural experts suggest using below each pot, a tray about 3 inches deep and larger than the plant. Fill tray with marble chips, beach pebbles or crushed stones and keep the tray at least half full of water. The water level should be below the area where the pot rests. The stones look interesting, increase the evaporation of water and raise the humidity of the air around the pot.

It's best to buy the started plants from a florist. Many people find they are lucky if their herbs live for three weeks.

Rosemary and peppermint geranium surprisingly grow best out of direct sun and thrive indoors better than many herbs. Rosemary requires more water than some herbs and should never be allowed to dry out. However, more herbs are lost by over-watering than by under-watering the experts say.

You may wish to try lavender, winter sage, and the scented geraniums. Lime, rose, and peppermint geranium leaves flavor food and are decorative under a cup of tea or dish of fresh fruit.

The Salad Story

The French and Spanish are given credit for introducing salad to America. They picked up the custom of mixing greens with oils and herbs from the Italians and early Greeks. However, salads were used very little in the United States until after World War I.

For a time, salads were considered "fancy fare" at meals. But now, in many homes the plans for the meals of the day are not considered complete unless at least one salad is included. Whether the salad accompanies a meal of hearty foods or forms the main dish of a luncheon or supper it may supply vivid color, delicious flavor, and, best of all, valuable minerals and vitamins. Throughout the year a variety of salad foods are available. In fact, hardly a food can be thought of that does not have some place in salad-making.

The attractiveness of a salad is largely determined by the size and shape of the pieces of food used, the color combinations, and the size and shape of the servings. Most salads are more acceptable when served thoroughly chilled. Garnishes aid materially in the attractiveness of the serving. Simple salads are most pleasing, and one food or a combination of only two or three is usually preferable to a mixture of a great variety. Combinations would be suitable. Just the right amount of a well-seasoned salad dressing adds to the palatability of the dish.

A salad is a sort of mealtime magician, able to jump in and supply the contrasts that make meals sparkle. If the entree, was a creamy, tender fricassee, a sharp, tangy, crisp green salad supplies the zest. If the entree was hot and spicy, a bland and delicate jellied salad will taste good. If the main dish was skimpy, a hearty chef's salad will make up for it. A salad can be used to whet the appetite, served as a first course.

Good For Diets

Salads figure prominently in reducing diets for they are low in calories. But to achieve your goal of weight reduction be sure to serve the salad with only a sprinkle of lemon juice, a touch of vinegar or a low-calorie dressing.

When buying salad ingredients, buy fresh and crisp looking ones. Wash greens thoroughly and pat dry with paper towel and chill them in the refrigerator. Don't soak greens because this leaches away the nutrients. Tearing or breaking the greens into bite size pieces is usually better than cutting them because cutting may cause bruising and wilting earlier. Salads can provide valuable nutrients to one's diet if the ingredients are chosen with care. Use the dark green vegetables because they are richer in Vitamin A and iron.

Potato salad, a favorite for summertime picnics, is best made from potatoes cooked in their jackets and peeled and marinated while still warm. The small red waxy potatoes hold their shape and don't crumble when sliced or diced; furthermore, they do not absorb an excessive amount of dressing and become mushy. For hot weather picnics use an eggless dressing to avoid spoilage.

By JACK STILLMAN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Forty-six Americans—15 of them physicians—are waging a war aimed at wiping out smallpox in West Africa.

They have trained 6,000 Africans to help them. And the National Communicable Disease Center—where the campaign is being mapped—says smallpox in the region will be eradicated by 1975.

Dr. Donald Millar, a 34-year-old medical doctor from Newport News, Va., heads the program which has been under way for little more than a year.

Why is the United States spending $7 million a year to try to wipe out smallpox in Africa? Millar says there is a selfish reason, in one respect, in that the United States has not had a single case of smallpox since 1949, and it doesn't want any.

The African nations involved in the inoculation program are among three areas of the world considered principal sources of the disease. The others are India and portions of the Far East.

The smallpox program has been conducted on a regional basis among the 19 countries with the help of the United States.

Countries participating are Cameroon, Central African Republic, Chad, Congo (Brazzaville), Dahomey, Gabon, Gambia, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria,

Smallpox Is Target In Africa

Senegal, Togo, Upper Volta, Guinea, Liberia and Sierra Leone.

Smallpox claims more than 6,000 lives a year in the region. Its victims are said to be cursed by evil spirits and are banished from their villages and left in the bush to die in shame.

But on the border of Togo and Dahomey, there are tribes that worship smallpox. They have a smallpox goddess known by several names, such as Sorponna or Shopona.

Millar, who travels to Africa periodically, said this has resulted in three major problems. —People in this region naturally resist vaccination.

—There is a tendency to hide outbreaks of smallpox, making it difficult to determine where to send the medical teams.

—And it results in propagation of the disease through rituals.

"We are looking into the anthropology of these people to see if we can find some way to approach them," Millar said.

"But this is the only cultural barrier we have found. People quite openly accept any kind of help program that is delivered to them by the government."

"Generally speaking, when you have a tribal system and an unsophisticated people, most of the time you just have to make the service available."

English Village, Facing Death, Finds New Hope

TAKELEY, England (AP) — In the Essex farmlands 30 miles north of London a village is fighting for its life.

If the fight fails, the bulldozers move in. Takeley and its 12th century church will vanish beneath a sea of concrete.

London needs a new airport, and Takeley's rich farmlands are earmarked for the runways. Until late February it seemed the villagers' fight was lost. The death sentence had been proclaimed by the government and approved by the House of Commons.

A sudden switch inside Prime Minister Harold Wilson's cabinet brought the villagers new hope. The Board of Trade ordered a new public inquiry.

"This," said Geoffrey Coleman, 40, a farmer whose livelihood is threatened, "is a reprieve but not total victory. So we'll keep fighting."

"Why should we lose everything because a few faceless men in ministries want to grab our land for an airport?"

"We'll fight all the way, and I mean fight. My shotgun is ready for the day they try to get me out."

But first the fight will be waged before the inquiry. The villagers, backed by such powerful organizations as the National Farmers Union and county councils representing more than 15 million people, argue that it's close to madness for this overcrowded island to use good land for airports.

They want the government to give close study to alternative proposals. One is to expand the airport at Luton, midway between London and the industrial midlands. Another is to build a giant international airport and deep-water dock on reclaimed land off Essex.

Peter Masefield, chairman of the government airport authority, believes these arguments are misplaced. London's present airport facilities, he says, are already inadequate and soon will be choked.

In a speech he contended that the new airport must be in action by 1974—and that the new inquiry, as did a previous one, will find Takeley project the inevitable choice.

As English villages go, Takeley is nothing special. It straggles along a road built by the Romans. To the north stands its church, built by the Normans, and a mile farther north an airstrip built by the Americans.

From this airstrip has grown the present threat.

A century ago cheap grain from Canada and the Middle West threw the area's wheat and barley farmers into bankruptcy. Canny Scots moved in to buy land cheap and restore the derelict farms with mutton and wool.

In 1943, the Americans arrived and carved out the airstrip north of the village and another one three miles to the east. B26 bombers flew nightly sorties over Germany and occupied France. Their crews learned to play darts and drink warm beer in the Three Horseshoes at Mole Hill Green, a tiny thatched pub.

Occasionally the Yanks come back, bringing the wife and kids on a sentimental journey to see where father fought the war and triumphed in the Saturday night darts match. Nothing has changed, but now all may change.

The two airstrips—one known as Stansted, the other as Easton Lodge—form the basis of the new project. It is known as London Airport, Stansted, to distinguish it from the main London Airport west of the capital and the subsidiary at Gatwick, to the south.

Government planners first started eying Stansted 15 years ago when it became clear that the main London Airport, though still building, would prove inadequate.

Now, with 13 million passengers scowling through its lounges every year and air traffic doubling every five years, Masefield and his planners say it is time to act.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — In the Rochester Public Library recently, one man handed a librarian a written request for "A Connecticut Yankee on King Arthur's Porch." The veteran librarian quickly noted the error and found the Yankee in the king's court.

Born in Cole Camp, Jan. 29, 1927, he was the son of Otto F. and Augusta Von Hoten Behrens. He lived his early life in Cole Camp, graduating from high school there.

He received his bachelor of science degree in music education from Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, in 1948.

He taught in Union and Festus until 1954 when he went to Columbia and received his master's degree in music education that year from the University of Kansas. He was coordinator of music for the Columbia Public School System and was well known over the state since he was vice-president of the Missouri Music Educators Association.

He was married to Bernece Schott of Warrensburg, who preceded him in death in 1965.

Surviving are a son, Robert L. and a daughter, Barbara Bernece, both of the home; his mother, Mrs. Augusta Behrens, Cole Camp; and one sister, Mrs. Warren Schlagel, Palo, Kans.

Funeral services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Cole Camp at 2 p.m. Friday.

Burial will be at the Memorial Park Cemetery, Cole Camp.

The body is at the Parker's Funeral Chapel, Columbia.

Attack

Khe Sanh considers that the siege there began 54 days ago with the attack Jan. 21 on the base and Khe Sanh village. "We are prepared much better now than we were in January," said a spokesman.

U.S. bombers hit the estimated 20,000 North Vietnamese troops surrounding Khe Sanh Wednesday with five raids. The B52s also flew missions against enemy concentrations northwest of Dak To, in the central highlands, and in the A Shau Valley.

At the eastern end of the demilitarized zone, fighting tapered off around Dong Ha, the U.S. Marine base near the coast. The only action reported there Wednesday was a clash between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese units six miles north of Dong Ha. The Marines, who had killed 35 enemy soldiers in the same area the day before, reported killing 30 more Wednesday. One Leath-erneck was killed and 33 were wounded.

South Vietnamese troops, scouring a battlefield five miles north of Dong Ha where they counted 194 enemy killed Monday and Tuesday, found another 111 bodies, a government spokesman said. This raised the toll in the battle to 305 enemy and 39 government troops killed, 91 government men wounded and 12 missing.

The spokesman said Vietnamese Rangers and Marines sweeping through rice paddies and salt flats east of Hue killed 44 enemy soldiers in a string of clashes Wednesday.

The South Vietnamese government reported that 3,776 of Hue's 145,000 civilians were killed and 1,900 were treated for wounds during the four weeks of fighting there in February. The report also said 1,041 civilians were captured by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops that overran Hue.

In the Mekong Delta, a U.S.-South Vietnamese task force continued an operation 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said the force from the U.S. 9th Infantry Division and South Vietnamese 7th Division have killed 139 of the enemy and collected 80 suspects since March 7, while 18 Americans have been killed and government losses have been light.

In its regular casualty report, the U.S. Command said the American death toll in Vietnam was 509 last week with 2,766 wounded.

Senate Pays Tribute

The Missouri State Senate passed a resolution recently expressing its sympathy and regret at the death of J. H. Brunkhorst of Sedalia who died recently.

Mr. Brunkhorst, before retiring, was an employee of the M.K. & T. railroad and served as a superintendent of the shops in Sedalia for 35 years.

1:30 p.m. Friday at the Gillespie Funeral Home with the Rev. E. O. Farier, pastor of the Poplar Baptist Church near Warsaw officiating.

Mrs. Edward Schroeder will sing "In the Garden" and "Beyond the Sunset," accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Maynard at the organ.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at the Gillespie Funeral Home.

Martha E. Gerling

PILOT GROVE — Funeral services for Martha E. Gerling, 87, who died Tuesday, were held at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Pilot Grove with the Rev. Father Edwin Sturm officiating.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

Services were under the direction of the Hayes-Painter Funeral Home in Pilot Grove.

Louis Harms

COLE CAMP — Funeral services for Louis B. Harms, 84, who died Monday, were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Trinity Lutheran Church in Cole Camp with the Rev. L. R. Krout officiating.

Burial was in the Trinity Cemetery in Cole Camp.

Services were under the direction of the Fox Funeral Home in Cole Camp.

Accidents

The 200 block of West 11th was the scene of a minor two-car accident at 2:10 p.m. Wednesday.

According to police, a 1960 Plymouth, driven west on 11th by Lucretia M. Laing, 48, 1101 South Kentucky, was in collision with a parked 1957 Plymouth, owned by Hobart William Ward, 70, Otterville.

Damage was to the left front of Ward's Plymouth and the right front of Mrs. Laing's Plymouth.

City Fires

William B. Arnold, owner of the Satellite Motel, 3221 East 12th Street, just south of U. S. Highway 50, was painfully burned about 5:41 p.m. Wednesday, when a gas wall furnace exploded while he was working on it. He was first taken to the Bothwell Hospital by Fire Chief Emmett Vaught and then to the office of Dr. A. J. Campbell for treatment.

Arnold suffered flash burns on his face, neck hands and arms, and the hair on the back of his head was singed. Dr. Campbell rendered medical treatment after which he was taken back to his home, at the motel.

Both Sedalia fire trucks went to the scene. The flash fire had set fire to a box mattress, which was dragged from the Number 4, cabin along with other articles.

So terrific was the explosion the walls of the cabin were blown loose, a wooden door in the cabin was broken and a glass in the storm door broken. Arnold succeeded in getting out of the cabin and then walked to the office building and his living quarters.

Assistant Fire Chief Willis Jabas estimated the damage to the contents of the cabin room at $100 and damages to the building about $500.

Police Follow Trail of Water After Mishap

Police investigation resulted in the apprehension of a hit-run driver following an accident early Thursday morning in the driveway of the Hammond Garage, 2700 East Highway 50.

According to the police report, a car parked in the driveway owned by Terry Lynn Meyer, Mora, was apparently struck by a northbound car on Marshall. Police were called to the scene to investigate and noticed water on the street. They trailed the water north and found a car with traces of paint and damage on the right front side.

The driver was issued a summons for careless and imprudent driving.

Unemployment Cost Drop in February

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The February cost of unemployment compensation dropped in Missouri as the weather improved a bit, the State Division of Employment Security reported today.

The total was $4,680,128 for the month, compared with $4,718,409 in January. In February a year ago the cost was $3,895,739.

2. "Clear indication that the Federal Reserve is on the move in the direction of increased monetary restraint because of the failure to pass a tax bill."

3. "It is now clear we may be faced with increased federal expenditures beyond the figures in the President's budget submitted in January because of events in the intervening period in Vietnam."

4. "The increased pace of the economy generally calls for more restraint."

5. "Our trade surplus is being reduced to an extent that may offset the efforts we are making to reduce our balance of payments deficit contained in the President's New Year's Day message."

"absolutely fantastic," one said. More than 50 tons were sold at the daily fixing, when the price was set just under the ceiling at $35.197. Dealers were selling at $35.25, however.

The pound opened at $2.39125, quickly dropped to $2.3910 and then went to its lowest level ever—$2.3896.

Exchange dealers said the market was a shambles with no demand for sterling.

Both the pound and the dollar were down in Frankfurt. In Paris the dollar was fairly steady but the pound lost 170 points, dropping to 11,780 francs.

More than 15 tons of gold, a record, was sold in Paris Wednesday, and orders by mid-morning indicated an even greater demand today.

The Johnson administration appeared to be relying on the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge, and the bill to lift the 25 per cent gold cover for U.S. currency, both of which are a long way from congressional passage. U.S. officials said further shock waves can be expected until the international money system is reformed.

Gold buying reached near panic proportions in European markets Wednesday, and there was no sign of the rush abating.

London bullion dealers sharply curtailed trading so they could catch up with their backlog of orders as demand passed the 100-ton mark.

Hoarders and speculators were gambling that the United States would not be able to hold the price of gold at $35 an ounce.

Peter Jay, economics editor of the London Times, wrote of the "extraordinary psychological flaw in the 20th century man which can induce almost the whole civilized world simultaneously to risk and perhaps destroy the whole basis of its prosperity in a fit of self-immolation."

William Davis, financial editor of The Guardian, said it is "doubtful Washington is willing to be really tough in an election year. Recent indications have hardly been encouraging."

Samuel Brittan, economics editor of the Financial Times, said, "The real question is how far the Americans would really allow their gold stock to fall. Few people believe the U.S. would throw its last ounce of gold on the market to defend the dollar, whatever the law allows."

Two Missourians On Casualty List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Missourians were on Wednesday's casualty list from Vietnam, the Defense Department said.

The two Army men were killed in action. They were Pfc. Elvin L. Allen, husband of Mrs. Olivia Allen, Kansas City; and Pfc. Lee R. Stafford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glendel L. Stafford, Rt. 1, Dudley.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's special legislative session appropriated a total of $1,200,332,332 compared with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' recommendation of $1,198,375,977.

Since the capital improvements bill did not pass, the legislative fiscal affairs office reported today that left an operating reserve of $38,996,228 in general revenue (tax) funds.

If the building bill had passed, this reserve would have been cut to around $3 million.

For general operations the Legislature appropriated $1,191,260,961 compared with the governor's recommendation of $1,188,304,606. The rest went into the final catch-all or omnibus bill to cover new laws passed by the special session.

Scouting Topic For Lions Club

The participation of Lions clubs over the world in Boy Scouts of America, was told to the Sedalia Lions Club at its noonday meeting Wednesday by Garland Groom, Scout executive. He pointed out that Lions International has done much in advancing Scouting.

He said that in Region Eight, comprised of six states, there are 715 Boy Scout troops which are sponsored by the various Lions Clubs.

In his talk he paid tribute to the Girls Scouts who are celebrating Girl Scout Week this week. He told of the founding of the Boy Scouts by Baden-Powell in England, and of the Scouting program being brought to the United States. He said the wife of Baden-Powell suggested rewriting the Boy Scouting manual to fit Girl Scouting and she took a very active part in this program, resulting in one of the greatest girl organizations in the world.

He told of the many countries in which Scouting is an active program including Russia, where Scouts are known as the Pioneers.

The speaker was introduced by Tom Baker, program chairman.

Addison "Ad" Taylor, president, presided over the meeting.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: The woman who lives next door has a long nose which she loves to stick in other people's business. I have disliked this woman ever since I was a little girl.

I have been married for over a year and am about eight weeks pregnant. Every time Mrs. Long nose sees me she pats my stomach and says, "Anything in the oven yet?" She makes me so mad I'd like to belt her in the mouth.

Yesterday when she pulled that "oven bit" I managed, miraculously, to keep my temper and say sweetly, "No, nothing..."

Soon I will have to tell people I am expecting but I want to do it in my own way, and not be backed into a corner by a nosy neighbor.

How can I avoid answering a direct question? — BURNED

Dear B: You are under no obligation to answer personal questions. Simply evade the question by saying, "When I am ready to make an announcement, you'll know." Then change the subject.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a nursing home and there are some wonderful old folks out here. The Christmas holidays are the happiest time of the year because plants and flowers and gifts and cards and visitors come pouring in. Everyone is in a good mood. The ailing seem to perk up and we have fewer patients confined to their beds at Christmas than any other time.

But the holiday spirit soon wears off and this is what I am writing about. Why don't children whose parents are in nursing homes give a moment's thought to these folks during the other eleven months of the year? If it weren't for Christmas and Mother's Day it's as if nobody knows they are alive.

One frail little woman who has three sons and a daughter living within 40 miles of here has been re-reading the same two letters since last August. The whole family piles in on Christmas Day and then she doesn't see or hear from anyone until her birthday—seven months later. I feel so sorry for this sweet old woman that I have asked my own children to visit her.

If I see this letter in print I will feel better. Thank you. — CHICAGO

Dear Chi: So will I, and here it is. Guilty sons and daughters might feel worse, however, but if they get the message, that's all right with me.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever we go out to a party my wife has the idea I should spend the whole evening entertaining her. If I should walk off for five minutes to talk to someone she gets a hurt expression on her face. Then she is upset the remainder of the night and nobody has a good time.

When we got home last evening she gave me a long lecture on how it looks to other people when a man ignores his own wife and plays up to younger women. Bla bla bla bla ... Finally I walked into the other room and started to read the paper. She came in after me, grabbed the paper out of my hand and shouted, "You deserve a wife like Ann Landers."

What do you think she meant by that? — FEET OF CLAY

Dear Feet: Under the circumstances I don't think her remark was much of a compliment to either of us. But I'll forgive her if you will.

Apes Around the House
Doesn't Mean Husbands

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Would you like never to have to work for a living and also have a trained ape to help your wife around the house?

These awesome delights are envisioned—and not altogether tongue-in-cheek—as possible benefits to man in the next century by Arthur C. Clarke, one of the world's top science fiction writers.

"It isn't possible to predict the political future, but it is possible to map technological trends," said Clarke, a trained physicist and mathematician who is also recognized as an authority on space and oceanography.

"The life of the average man will be profoundly changed. In the next century 95 per cent of the work done by men now will no longer exist, or will be handled by machines. Man's purpose in the universe will be to enjoy himself—and it is about time he did.

"Pericles never had to go to a daily job. Neither did Socrates. No freeman of ancient Athens had to labor to live. They had thousands of slaves. Future man will have millions of superior machines to do the world's work."

What about those trained apes to help the little lady do the dishes and clean the rugs?

Smiling slightly, Clarke replied:

"A chimpanzee already has the ability to do many household chores, but he lacks the motivation—the desire to do them. In the future we can genetically engineer apes to do even more complicated tasks—and enjoy doing them."

The English writer—50, thin-haired, slender, slightly stooped—has written some 40 books that have sold five million copies. He spent four years working on MGM's science thrill film, "2001: A Space Odyssey."

Clarke believes we are in the beginning stages of a revolutionary intelligence and information explosion of which most of us are still unaware.

"Knowledge now is doubling every 10 years," he remarked. "By the time a man is middle-aged, half the things he learned are no longer true.

"In the coming century the ordinary day-to-day running of the world will be turned over to a race of supercomputers. The great problem will be educating people.

"Education will be lifelong. If a man lives to be 125, he may attend some form of school until he is 120. People will spend their time living and learning, not working at routine jobs.

"The great industries of the future will be education, research and entertainment.

"Before the development of agriculture man didn't really work. He lived as a hunter. In the time ahead agriculture, as we know it today, will be ended. It is too inefficient. Synthetic foods will be produced more cheaply and in larger quantities. Even now only three per cent of the world's petroleum output could be used chemically to produce all mankind's protein needs."

Other changes Clarke foresees:

"Man may be able to enjoy life 24 hours a day instead of 16

by abolishing sleep. Some forms of life do without sleep.

"Sex, obviously, will have to be separated from reproduction, a process already well under way. No family will be allowed to have more than 2.1 children."

Rush Season Ahead

By DON REEDER
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — For 11 men working on the 17th floor of Kansas City's modernistic federal building, spring means more than daffodils and melting snow.

Like tornadoes, for instance. The 11 men are meteorologists who make up the Weather Bureau's Severe Local Storm Forecast Center (SELS). Their job is to alert the nation to weather conditions which could spawn severe thunderstorms, hail or tornadoes.

Spring is their rush season. And if 1968 is anything like last year, the men of SELS will be busy. A total of 836 tornadoes were spotted in 1967—a figure topped only by the 898 of 1965 and 864 in 1957.

SELS is charged with spotting potential storm and tornado areas — not actually looking for the twisters themselves.

Using data on temperature, wind, humidity and air pressure fed into a computer, the experts work every day around the clock watching for trouble spots.

When a forecaster on the SELS desk sees ingredients of a severe storm or tornado shaping up—warm, moist air colliding with a mass of cold, dry air—he consults with the regional weather coordinating center in the affected area if there is time.

Then he issues a tornado watch message relayed through government news printers to Weather Bureau stations, radio and television outlets, newspapers, news services, airlines and other agencies.

From then on it's up to the local Weather Bureau to watch for twisters and issue a tornado warning if one is sighted.

Not until one of the ominous funnel clouds is spotted do the sirens screech and the urgent messages crackle forth from radio and TV sets.

A tornado watch means, "Look out, because a tornado might develop in your area."

But a tornado warning says, "Head for shelter—it's coming your way."

Tornado watches are issued for areas of about 27,000 square miles, because experience has shown this is the coverage area of the average storm system.

The SELS unit tries to issue its watches two or three hours before the storm is expected to arrive and keeps the watch in effect for about six hours.

"If you try to put them out six or eight hours in advance, people lose interest," explained Joseph G. Galway, first assistant in the Weather Bureau's National Severe Storms Forecast Center of which SELS is a part.

The tornado watchers are constantly trying to improve their forecasting technique.

During 1966 the unit issued 164 tornado watches, out of which 165 twisters were sighted. Since a total of 570 tornadoes were seen that year, that's a batting average of .290—not spectacular but indisputably major league.

Twisters have struck in every month of the year, but about 58 per cent occur in April, May and June. No state is immune, but the Midwest is lashed most often by the terrible winds.

Although tornadoes can happen any time of the day or night, 82 per cent strike between noon and midnight. The greatest concentration is from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., when 23 per cent of the twisters touch down.

But tornadoes are as crafty as they are violent, and nature seems to take delight in confounding the statisticians.

Experts have figured the chances of a twister striking any given point, even in the most frequently hit areas, is only once in 250 years.

But tornadoes have hit Oklahoma City more than two dozen times since 1892. Several cities have been subjected to two twisters on the same day. The town of Codell in northwest Kansas' Rooks County was hit three years straight—1916, 1917 and 1918—each time on May 20.

Tornado forecasting has improved greatly since the Weather Bureau got into the business in 1952, Galway said. Use of radar, computers, satellites and other techniques — plus help from thousands of volunteer spotters—are some of the reasons why the number of twisters reported keeps growing.

Galway admitted the Weather Bureau was criticized at first for frightening people with its tornado watch bulletins. But gradually the public has come to learn the difference, he said, between a watch and a warning. "We get very few complaints now," Galway said. "People understand what we're doing and appreciate it — especially if they've ever been hit by a tornado."

Support for Red Cross

Technically the United States is not engaged in war, but an undeclared action like the hostilities going on in Vietnam, is a dead ringer for one.

The conflict, the increasing casualties and civilian help needed over there are beginning to touch the people back home in many ways. One of these is the service of the American Red Cross.

All over the world the Red Cross stands as the symbol of helpfulness in time of trouble. The humanitarian record of this organization in disaster relief at home and around the globe is firmly established in every adult mind.

Assisting people plagued by floods, hurricanes, tornadoes and other natural disasters puts a strain on normal Red Cross resources. Now additional accommodations should be supplied men in the armed services in areas of stress and need for communication with families.

Consequently, Pettis County is called upon in this emergency to raise $3,000 as its quota in the current S.O.S. campaign to "Support Our Servicemen."

Fred Nuzum, chairman of the local chapter, has issued an appeal for civilian financial support. This should be forthcoming in the amount designated.

The Red Cross does not need to be sold to the American people. It should be enough to note that this is the moment for them to make another investment in the helpfulness the organization symbolizes.

Browsing through some microfilm reels of the Sedalia Democrat we stopped to read the March 14, 1898 issue. Headlines emphasized numerous threats to the United States on the eve of the Spanish-American War, such as:

"Spain and France Join Hands..." "Americans Called Scoundrels by Nature." Emperor Wilhelm of Germany roars: "What I declare is that as long as Wilhelm II is emperor the Yankees shall not take possession of Cuba."

Less than 40 years later, Hitler and Mussolini were mouthing similar diatribes of which we were reminded in the recent television movie of the Rise and Fall of Hitler.

Now here we are 70 years away from March 14, 1898 and Uncle Sam is still the whipping boy. Only this time in broader scope criticism comes from many nations we have befriended financially and otherwise.

The isolationists (remember them?) of yesteryear would turn over in their graves if they could hear how the United States is played for a sucker today.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Military Shaping Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Before the Senate votes money for 200,000 more U.S. troops to Vietnam, it should take a careful look at two things:

1. The slip-and-slide manner in which we have become involved in a major war without the consent of Congress.

2 — The manner in which the American military more and more are shaping, now almost directing, foreign policy.

The trend toward military dictation of foreign policy has been developing for some time, but has reached a peak under Lyndon Johnson. Today there are only three civilian advisers whom he consults — Secretary of State Rusk, who has become so entrenched regarding Vietnam that he has lost his perspective; Walt Rostow, who was responsible for our original involvement in Vietnam under Kennedy and now wants to justify his mistake; and the new Secretary of Defense, Clark Clifford, who has kept his perspective.

These three lunch with the President once a week. Secretary of Defense McNamara, now retired, is reported to have had a feeling of remorse that he was partly responsible for leading the country deeper and deeper into war. Clifford, who has taken his place, is a tough, shrewd observer and not as much of a hawk as originally reported. It now develops that he was against the bombing of North Vietnam on the fatal night of Feb. 7, 1965, when the Johnson administration took its biggest escalation step. He felt the decision was a serious error.

It was the military who persuaded the President to take this step. Acting Secretary of State George Ball vigorously opposed the escalation. Ball argued that Premier Kosygin, who had been in office only four months, had arrived in Hanoi only the day before, and to bomb at that time looked like a deliberate slap at him. Later it developed that Kosygin had been on a mission to persuade the North Vietnamese to talk peace.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have been the guiding factor in setting American policy in Vietnam ever since. Simultaneously the war has been going from bad to worse.

—Military Encroachment—

The encroachment of the American military on foreign policy under Johnson is not entirely new. To some extent it began under Franklin Roosevelt, who gave the Navy a much bigger role than the Army. Roosevelt had served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Wilson, and resented the manner in which the Republicans under Coolidge and Hoover had scrapped battleships and curtailed cruisers. FDR rebuilt the Navy at a tremendous speed, but never let the Admirals or the Generals run World War II.

Harry Truman, a veteran of Battery D in the old Missouri National Guard, reversed this, gave more power to the Army. His close friend and military aide, Gen. Harry Vaughan, was a staunch Army man, and on occasion helped siphon arms to Latin American nations despite the opposition of the State Department. Truman, however, never let the Army get out of hand, and fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur when he stepped over the line.

Significantly it was a military president, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who curbed the Army more than any other recent president. The Generals used to complain that Ike cut the military budget more than any civilian president. Ike understood Army politics, and was tough with his old buddies when they tried to lobby in Capitol Hill. He also warned, as he left office, of the danger of an alliance between the defense contractors and the military.

Kennedy returned the military to a position of power, emphasizing a 50-year fact that the military have always prospered under Democratic presidents.

—LBJ's Record—

However, no Democrat has given the military so much scope as Lyndon Johnson. Lyndon's kowtowing to the brass began when he was a young Lieutenant Commander in the South Pacific in World War II. Later he served on the House Naval Affairs Committee, then as Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee.

As such, he teamed up with the Generals and Admirals to blast Eisenhower for the missile gap. As Senate Majority Leader he was in a potent position to give the military the appropriations they wanted, and he did.

The Generals and Admirals, in return, put more military bases in Texas than in any other state in the union. If the civilians, who were supposed to run the military under Ike, tried to economize on a base in Texas, they heard from Lyndon in no uncertain terms. And the military always rushed to his defense. Texas bases, no matter how outmoded, were not curtailed or transferred out of the state.

The President's latest romance has been with Gen. William Westmoreland, who was caught napping during the Tet Lunar Holiday in a manner almost as serious as Admiral H. E. Kimmel and Gen. Walter Short were caught napping at Pearl Harbor. They were removed from command and disciplined.

Gen. Westmoreland, instead of being removed, has asked for and will probably get 200,000 more troops. Significantly, the oldest friend the President has on Capitol Hill had been publicly critical of Westmoreland. When LBJ, a very young senator from Texas, aspired to be Senate Majority Leader in 1953, it was Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, Southern elder statesman, who got on the long distance telephone to absent senators, then not in session, and rounded up the votes.

Moderate Exercise Helpful in Colitis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What causes spastic colitis? Does it lead to a peptic ulcer? Is there any connection between spastic and mucous colitis? What is the best treatment? Is rest necessary?

A—In most victims the cause is a high-strung nervous system with emotional instability. Although high-strung persons often develop a peptic ulcer, the two diseases are not usually seen in the same person. Other causes of colitis include allergies, chronic amebic dysentery and other intestinal infections and persistent use of laxatives.

Other terms used synonymously with spastic colitis include mucous colitis and irritable bowel syndrome. The treatment is difficult because it is hard to correct the underlying cause. In addition to a bland diet, antispasmodic drugs and avoidance of laxatives, a short course with a tranquilizer may be necessary. Although strenuous exercise may, under some circumstances, aggravate your colitis, moderate exercise is encouraged. Rest is not particularly helpful.

Q—I have a bowel movement every time I finish a meal. What causes this?

A—Eating a meal is a natural stimulus to the entire digestive tract. In most persons this results in a bowel movement within an hour after finishing breakfast. When the stimulus is strong enough to cause a movement within a few minutes after every meal, the victim usually has an irritable colon.

Q—I have four or five loose stools a day. My doctor prescribed paregoric which helps but the condition returns when I stop taking the medicine. What should I do?

A—Paregoric is a very valuable drug for slowing the movements of the digestive tract but it is not advised for the treatment of chronic colitis. You should consult a specialist in gastrointestinal diseases.

Q—Will diarrhea eventually stop by itself?

A—Only if the cause is removed. The acute diarrhea of food poisoning is usually self-limited but the chronic diarrhea of mucous colitis requires expert treatment to bring it under control.

Q—I have had several attacks of spastic colitis. My doctor is giving me Combid. What is it for?

A—This drug is a combination of a tranquilizer and an antispasmodic that is widely used in the treatment of digestive disorders. When used under medical supervision it is safe.

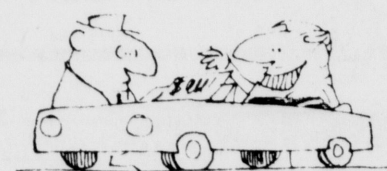

After centuries of argument over the shape of the earth, scientists not only long ago discredited the belief that the earth is flat but have also shown that the earth is not perfectly round. The World Almanac says that the earth is flattened at both poles and therefore is not a true sphere but an oblate spheroid or ellipsoid. The polar circumference of the earth is 41,900 miles less than the equatorial circumference of 24,902.44 miles.

Thirty-five years ago when there weren't many expert bridge players, everyone knew everyone else quite well. In those days Waldemar von Zedtwitz was the slowest playing expert. His partners never minded. They were sure that after Waldy finished thinking, he would come up with the right play.

There are plenty of slow players today and when most of them go into a trance their partners shudder. Somehow or other they don't always find that right play when they get through thinking.

East was one of those slow players. It didn't take him long to play his king of hearts after a low card was played from dummy at trick one. Then East commenced to think while West shuddered.

West couldn't see that singleton ace of clubs in the South hand, but West could see that East was thinking of leading a spade and West wanted no part of a spade lead.

East could not see that singleton ace of clubs either but he might have. East was looking at 10 of clubs. His partner's three of hearts had been fourth best, so South was marked with four hearts. South had bid and rebid diamonds to show a five card suit. This left him with only four black cards and three were likely to be the queen and two other spades.

Anyway, East thought and finally played his king of spades. South dropped the queen and had established a sure spade entry to dummy. If East had returned a heart at trick two and used his top spades properly, declarer would have been set several tricks. Even after the king of spades play, East could have defeated the contract by shifting to the 10 of diamonds. But East did not make that play. Instead he led the heart back one play too late. South led a club to his ace, played a spade and wound up with six clubs and one trick in each other suit.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—How many persons witnessed the Wright brothers first successful airplane flight?

A—In recalling the event, the Wrights made the following statement: "The first flights with the power machine were made on Dec. 17, 1903. Only five persons besides ourselves were present."

Q—Which is the deepest canyon in the world?

A—Hell's Canyon, dividing Oregon and Idaho. It plunges 7,900 feet from Devil Mountain down to the Snake River.

No Action Yet On a Tax Hike

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a torrent of words, pro and con, President Johnson's proposal for an income tax increase remains on dead center in the House Ways and Means Committee.

But forces are building up that could jar it into motion through a reluctant Congress.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, who can count on solid support from his Ways and Means Committee, repeatedly in recent weeks has listed two conditions under which he might take the 10 per cent surtax proposal out of the drawer:

—An unmistakable surge of inflation threatening a runaway.

—A sharp step-up in money needs for the Vietnam fighting.

The second is the one that seems more likely to develop soon.

Capitol Hill is betting it will be asked to appropriate for some degree of U. S. manpower buildup in Vietnam—whether it is the 200,000 additional troops that have been the subject of furious speculation or a much smaller number.

And apart from any U.S. build-up, a big bill is expected for replacement and upgrading of equipment for allied forces as well as those of this country.

In combination with even a modest increase in U.S. manpower commitment, such an expenditure would jump the prospective deficit so far beyond the $20 billion mark that the basically conservative objectors to a surtax on Ways and Means probably would bow to the demand for additional revenues.

The administration so far has tried to make its case for the surtax almost entirely on economic grounds, arguing the danger of inflation and the shaking of confidence abroad in the dollar. Such arguments lack the impact that a straight appeal for a war tax would have.

There have been some contradictions among the economic indicators and the economists, and while the majority of economic experts seem to favor the tax, they are not unanimous.

There is room to argue whether the inflation already being experienced is demand inflation —supposedly most vulnerable to a tax soaking up purchasing power—or administered or cost-push inflation relatively immune to such a remedy.

As for the argument that willingness to pass the tax bill is a test of the United States' sincerity in getting its international payments in order, one member snorted:

"Can you imagine me going before the House and saying we have to pass this tax bill because European bankers say we do?"

If it has been a deliberate administration policy to try not to emphasize the Vietnam war while arguing for more revenues, that policy will be scrapped whenever the time comes for congressional leaders to persuade their colleagues to cast tax-raising votes they will have to explain at home in an election year.

Betty Canary Mamas of Broods

It is a most interesting, sometimes entertaining, and always discomfiting fact of life that a mother of five or more children is always being asked for advice on how to rear children. I mean, people seem to think you KNOW, just because there are so many around your house.

I do not mean to imply that mothers with lots of children merely think, "Wow! Look at the kids around here!" and just forget about it. After all, they pick up ideas as well as dirty jeans, torn papers and ice cream dishes, and are always happy to share tips with others. However, it is a mistake to think they have all the answers on nail biting and homework.

Sometimes they are merely helpless victims. For example, let me assure you that there are those who must believe all mothers of large families belong to a guild and the big secret of the sisterhood is how to toilet-train a child.

Ask any of them! They will tell you that no matter where they are—say perhaps a tea or a luncheon—they will be having a grand time discussing politics or religion or a favorite comedian and sure as the world somebody will slide up and plead for information on how to dispense with diapers.

Now, experience has taught me. There is no point in my telling the truth. I cannot just say: "Frankly, I believe toilet training is an out-and-out MIRACLE!" because the young mother will not believe this. She KNOWS I know. So, I tell her, as every mother of a large family would, to relax and the little doll will be trained when HE is ready. Also, I usually emphasize the fact that I have never seen a child going to school carrying a diaper pail.

My friend Ella tells me that she is always turning around and finding a mother of one or two children asking her in a quavering voice, "I don't spank my children—do you?" "What do you tell her?" I asked.

"Oh, I always say, 'NEVER.'"

"Is that all you tell her?"

"Well, sometimes I tell her the rest of the truth, which is, because they all move too fast for me."

Actually, the most common misconception about mothers of large families is that, having learned to cope with emergencies, and, having learned to differentiate between cries of anger and cries of joy, they are always calm, serene and above it all. Of course, this is not the truth, although I must say I used to believe this myself. There is Ella, for example, who has 10 children. I went along for years believing she was calm and serene, only to discover that really she was in sort of a coma.

The Marred 'Victory'

An Egyptian military tribunal has sentenced the country's former air force commander, Lt. Gen. Mohammed Sidki Mahmoud, to 15 years in prison for "negligence which marred the victory of Egyptian armed forces" in the June war with Israel.

Lucky for Mahmoud that Egypt's "victory" was merely "marred." If the Israelis had caught 550 of Egypt's planes on the ground instead of only 450, he could have been shot.

Letters to Editor

DOROTHY LYLES (1805 West 4th St.) — I have just read the Democrat, and the story captioned, "Hangs Himself in Cell." To put a man in jail for being intoxicated in public, did the officers bother to take the man home? Did they contact relatives? Did they take him to the hospital? Did they consider him at all? Can these questions be answered by our Sedalia police force? Or is this incident just a job the officers have to do, like the poundmaster's job of picking up stray dogs? The police as well as the poundmaster should have a twinge of conscience at times it seems to me.

MR. and MRS. MAX COBLE (2436 2nd St. Terrace) — Appropos of the times was the area clerics' views on the Vietnam war. No wonder the people are disillusioned with the Church as a force in the modern world. Christianity lacks power because of churchmen's lack of willingness to face problems with basic morality — they separate religion from life; like hypocrites, holding their Bibles making statements which mean nothing when not applied.

The "God is on our side" theme has pretty well been discredited down through history. More sins and killing have been committed in the name of God and religion than for any other cause. Did the German bishops think that God was on their side when they blessed their soldier's guns?

Another thought was that the church should stay out of politics. Did the German church feel this way and sit idly by while people were being burned in ovens?

A definite lack of opinion was expressed by others, combined with a willingness to go along with the status-quo. Spiritual leaders should have more concern over what their flock is led into. Attitudes and actions do little to strengthen the closing statement, "Maybe the day will come when men no longer need to fight."

Theories Take a Beating On Consumers' Behavior

NEW YORK (AP)—Notions about consumer buying behavior, once an area of relative certainty, have been shot full of holes in the past two years. And, like tin cans, theories full of holes hold no water.

Two more popularly held ideas now may be headed for the same fate.

The first states that the current very high rate of personal savings must end soon and that consumers will buy furniture, cars and homes that have been postponed as long as possible.

This belief is widespread. It underlies scores of bullish forecasts for the economy in the coming year and is heavily relied upon by retailers as offering hope for a better year than in 1967.

Debate Is Hurting Gold Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A burgeoning Senate debate is dashing administration hopes of quickly proving U.S. determination not to raise current gold prices despite the stampede of speculative gold buying in Europe.

Sponsors of legislation that would remove the 25 per cent gold cover on U.S. currency—and thus show U.S. willingness to put all its gold stock behind its pledge to maintain the $35-a-ounce price—conceded chances are slim for pushing the House-passed measure through quickly.

When debate on the measure began Tuesday, its Senate managers expected it to clear their branch in two days.

But opponents are waging a dogged fight against it, filing many amendments. Sen. Gordon L. Allott, R-Colo., said after a lengthy speech Wednesday denouncing the legislation that the battle may continue into next week.

The foes include senators convinced that retention of the gold cover might force President Johnson to cut back U.S. commitments overseas and others who insist the real need is to balance the federal budget by a drastic cut in spending.

Administration forces narrowly won the first test on the measure Wednesday, beating back 45 to 40 an amendment to reduce the cover to 12½ per cent instead of lifting it completely.

No Boobytrapped Dolls Are Located

WASHINGTON (AP)—A statement that no boobytrapped dolls have been found among gifts sent home from Vietnam by American servicemen was made Wednesday by the U.S. Customs Service.

The statement was made following a Kansas City television show in which an ordnance officer at Ft. Riley showed some GI's are sending home. The officer showed a boobytrapped plastic doll which would explode if an arm were raised.

The Customs Service said telephone calls began to come in from people who had similar dolls, but that no booby traps were found.

A spokesman described fears of such dolls as "a tempest in a big teapot."

The second opinion deals more with long-range consumer behavior. It says that Americans may become sated with material goods, that they may run out of things they want to buy, and that prosperity therefore will dig its own grave.

Professor George Katona, a man whose quarterly surveys of consumer attitudes for the University of Michigan qualify him as one of the most responsible commentators, disagrees with both opinions.

The first of these Katona termed unacceptable. In a recent speech he indicated that the consumer may continue to save more and spend less than usual so long as the motivating factors remain as they are.

These factors, he said, are the Vietnam war, inflation, and the uncertainty about taxes. The consumer has lived with all three for at least two years now. "He feels at the mercy of these developments," Katona says.

The consumer today is uncertain and has misgivings, he continued. "The future trend of his well-being does not seem to depend on what he is doing, how hard he works, whether he succeeds in his endeavors."

"Inflation, taxes and the war may, he knows, deprive him of what he thinks are well-deserved fruits of his labor."

Nobody can say how long these influences will continue, but Katona feels that "prospects for peace would represent a new development contributing toward a more confident outlook."

In the absence of any radical change, however, one can assume that the wait-and-see attitude might very well continue, that the consumer might continue to delay purchases and continue to save around 7 per cent of his take-home pay.

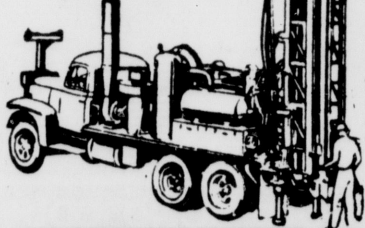

When he does begin to buy again, will he eventually drown his acquisitive instincts or merely sharpen them? Katona feels that the affluent society is "adaptive," that people will find ways to spend their earnings.

At the core of the adaptive theory of consumer behavior is the proposition that success arouses new wants and an improvement in the standard of living.

"The perception of progress or success in financial standing," Katona asserts, "stimulates fairly rapid 'upgrading,' while lack of progress results in failure to replace an old possession with a new one."

Anybody caught keeping up with the Joneses understands that theory. As success is experienced, luxuries become necessities; wants become needs; a bigger house, a bigger car and a country club membership become more desirable.

Volunteers Flock To McCarthy

NEW YORK (AP)—Supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy report his strong showing in the New Hampshire presidential primary has produced a surge of volunteers and some contributions. And most say Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's "reassessment" has not changed their plans.

McCarthy told newsmen Wednesday he thought it was "fine" for Kennedy to get into the race, but that it would have no effect on his own plans. The Minnesota Democrat then went to Wisconsin to join the young volunteers working for him in that state's primary.

"I think I can get the nomination," he said.

An Associated Press survey found McCarthy's opinion was shared by most of his supporters around the country as well, even after Kennedy's move to the edge of presidential candidacy.

"It makes no difference whatsoever in our plans," said Chairman Marvin Madsen of the McCarthy for President organization in St. Louis. "We're going all the way with McCarthy. Kennedy is in the position of hanging on McCarthy's coattails, but he stands less of a chance of being elected than McCarthy."

Harry Beardsley of Concerned Democrats in Iowa said, "We realize there are a lot of Kennedy supporters working for McCarthy. We have known that sooner or later this question would have to be resolved. A great deal of McCarthy support could be directly transferred to Kennedy."

"On the other hand, it is not impossible that one of Kennedy's reassessment alternatives will be to put his support behind McCarthy."

While Kennedy continued to meditate, McCarthy organizations were reported growing across the nation following the New Hampshire vote.

One hundred leaders of Reform and Independent Democrats organized a Coalition for a Democratic Alternative in Brooklyn to support McCarthy. His New York headquarters reported an unprecedented stream of contributions.

MISS Victoria Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, 116 East Cooper, left Wednesday for the Excelsior Springs Job Corps Center. Vicky was screened by the local branch of Women In Community Service, Sixth and Massachusetts.

"We have received $13,000 in two days," said co-director Sarah Kovner.

Some apparent bitterness against Kennedy was voiced. Harold Ickes, co-chairman and son of Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary of the interior said,

"It's too late for Kennedy," said Michael Tonkonog, a retired schoolteacher, and another worker said his announcement "fits into the whole Kennedy image of being an opportunist."

A new McCarthy organization opened in Trenton, N.J. and, at a rally at Charlottesville, Va., plans were announced for new McCarthy clubs throughout Virginia.

In Wisconsin, McCarthy's campaign director Jay G. Sykes predicted for the first time, "we're going to carry the state" in the April 2 primary.

Richard D. Cudahy, a Johnson supporter and Wisconsin state chairman, said the President now probably is the underdog there.

Hoosiers for a Democratic Alternative said in Indianapolis that the New Hampshire results brought them a surge of volunteers. C. Harvey Lord of the group said, "We have been getting all kinds of spontaneous offers of help."

MBS Authorizes $30,000 for Study

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP)—The Missouri Basins Systems Group, in its sixth annual meeting Wednesday, authorized expenditure of $30,000 for engineering studies of the total electric needs of its consumers through 1990.

The group is a pooling agency representing 125 consumer-owned electric systems in nine Missouri Basin states, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado.

The group proposed a system of coordination between its own power pool and groups of investor-owned utilities in the Midwest.

Robert O. Marritz, of Denver, executive director of the group, said it makes no sense to have "the strange phenomenon of two operating groups back-to-back, the facilities of which parallel, interconnect with, and in every way affect those of another, going it alone."

Gremlins See Man On All-Star Team

By D. Kelly Scruton
Sports Editor

Earl Otto Gerke, 17-year-old Sacred Heart Gremlin center, was selected for the South-Central All-District 1967-68 Basketball Team by the district members of the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. He was one of three Pettis-Benton Activities Association Conference players to be placed on the team of 10 members.

John Taylor, Stover, was a repeater on the All-District selection from last year. The other PBCAA player is Don Brandsgaard of Lincoln.

Gerke, is considered one of the best in leadership by his Coach, Jim Gladback. He was also Captain of the Gremlins this past season. He is right handed, plays the post position and used both the right handed hook and one hand jumper and can hit the basket from both outside and in tight. He was considered an outstanding board man and does an excellent job in handling the ball in back court.

Five other PBCAA players whose schools are in the South-Central District were given Honorable Mention. They were Ken Hampy, Smithton; Bob Emo, Sacred Heart; Larry Brownfield, Northwest; Hughesville; Terry McCain, Lincoln; and Steve Wheeler, LaMonte.

Golf Course Plans At Walnut Hills Presented

Final plans for the new Walnut Hills Country Club were presented to the stockholders this past week. Selected contractors are preparing bids for construction and upon approval of the bids by Floyd Farley, Oklahoma City, course architect, work will begin immediately, on the proposed 18-hole grass green course.

Plans call for automatic sprinkling or watering on the greens, tees and fairways. A practice putting green and driving range are to be included.

In conjunction with the big project, additional adjoining land is to be made into a 90-lot subdivision that will surround three sides of the course. Homesites will be available on the east, south and southwest sides. Sammons and Buller, local architects, are the designers of the subdivision. The course will parallel 16th Street and will begin on the east side of the Surf Club and will extend about a mile.

Keith Ekstrom, Pettis County Surveyor, is now laying out the subdivision and roads will be built within the next few weeks. The building sites will be available in approximately six to eight weeks.

The course is scheduled to be opened for play in the Spring of 1969. It will be a semi-private club, open to the public for those who desire only to pay green fees; another membership class, is a full membership for the family which will not require the payment of greens fees; an associate membership on which this member can play for half the regular green fee.

The golf club will be operating under an arrangement with the Surf Club, whereby all present members of the Surf Club will be considered members of the golf club, not having to pay an initiation fee, but will be required to pay the golf club dues.

The present stockholders comprise the following: John Ryan, Jack Cunningham, Dick Monsees, Henry Lamm, Dr. William Garton, David Eisenstein, Paul Schroeder, Orrin Smith, Paul Read, Olen Downs, Floyd Farley and John H. Talbot. Talbot is president of the corporation.

According to Talbot, at present a club house is planned which will house, the pro-shop, snack shop and lockers and shower room. Several acres of ground have been set aside for a future club house should the membership decided to build a larger building.

Baseball Season Underway At S-C

Vicki Stuerke

Under the direction of Coach Ralph "Skip" Schulz and Assistant Coach Wes Sanders, approximately sixty Smith-Cotton boys, with ten returning lettermen, have started spring baseball training. The athletes have been working in the gym each morning while after school practices began the last week in February. Until warmer weather the team will continue to work indoors where Coach Schulz hopes to teach the skills of defensive and offensive baseball.

Asked about this year's team, Coach Schulz reports that the pitching area will be a major problem.

"Four or five pitchers are required for every double header, and our schedule sees thirteen double headers. I feel that with the returning nucleus that we have, we should have a good ball club."

Strive for Improvement

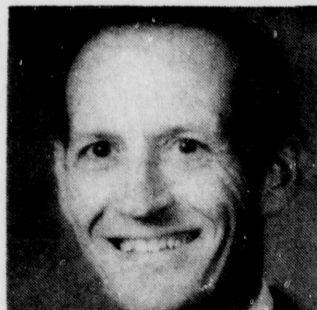

Striving for improvement over last year's second place standing in the Smith-Cotton Invitational Tournament, and their 12-7 record, the boys are working hard to achieve their first place goal. The invitational will be held Saturday, May 11.

S-C's season will start on March 25, at Babe Ruth Stadium as the team meets Columbia. The starting line-up has not yet been determined.

This year Rolla joins the conference while Oak Park, Lee's Summit, and North Kansas City will move to the Kansas City district.

The tournament schedules have been set up with the subdistrict to be held in Sedalia on April 22-27. The district will be held on May 4, in Lebanon. Once again, the sectional will be held in Sedalia on May 9. May

Upsets Are the Rule In NAIA Basketball Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Giant killers Oshkosh, Wis., State and Eastern Michigan and third-seeded Central State of Ohio moved into tonight's quarter-final round of the 31st annual NAIA basketball tournament as upsets continued to be the rule, not the exception.

Central State, tourney champion in 1965, meets Central Washington, seeded 10th, in the first game tonight, followed by Westminster, Pa., vs. Eastern Michigan; Dickinson, N. D., State vs. Fairmont, W. Va., State and Oshkosh State vs. Drury of Springfield, Mo.

The Titans of Oshkosh, behind Bill Schwartz's 26 points, scored eight straight points to come from a 58-54 deficit and take a 62-58 advantage as they defeated Eastern Montana 82-75 Wednesday night. Four men scored in double figures for Oshkosh, who upset top-seeded Guilford, N.C., in the first round.

Eastern Michigan, which edged second-seeded Stephen F. Austin of Nacogdoches, Tex., in first round action, upended 15th-seeded Hanover, Ind., 94-81. Eastern built up a 25-point halftime lead and coasted to victory as Harold Simons scored 22 points and Harvey Marlatt 21. Besides Central State, Central Washington and Westminster are the only seeded teams remaining in the tournament.

Central Washington, No. 10, toppled seventh-seeded Alcorn A&M of Lorman, Miss., 85-70. The Wildcats took a 10-point halftime lead, then shot 63 per cent in the second half to trim the tall Braves from Alcorn. Central Washington finished with 34 of 63 for 54 per cent from the field.

Sixth-seeded Westminster, whose coach, Buzz Ridl, will take over the Pittsburgh U. reins next season, snatched another victory in the final seconds to edge Monmouth, N.J., 70-69.

Henry Moore put Monmouth ahead 69-68 with 10 seconds remaining. But Bill Samuels swished the nets with a long one-hander at the buzzer as the Titans continued their heart-stoppers. In the first round, Dave Robinson tipped in a missed shot at the buzzer to give Westminster a 69-67 victory over Pasadena, Calif.

Fairmont State had little trouble with New Haven, Conn., winning 97-72. And Central State used fast breaks to snap a close game and defeat Valdosta, Ga., State 60-53.

Unheralded Drury kept up the pattern of upsets by clobbering eighth-seeded Northeastern Oklahoma State 85-69 as six men scored in double figures, led by Wade Chase with 18. In the first round Drury knocked off ninth-seeded Union, Ky.

Virgle Fredrick tallied 14 points, his brother Gail 12, Steve Hutchinson 11 and Roland Shultz to counter Northeastern's one-two punch of Charles Paulk and Richard Dumas. Paulk wound up with 28 points and 20 rebounds while Dumas had 20 points.

"They really came through," Drury coach Bill Harding said of his team. "And you haven't seen Virgle and Gail Fredrick at their best in the tournament yet. I don't mean that they haven't played well, but they haven't been as outstanding as they were during the season."

Her Large Work Surface Is Made from Slab Door

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Space in my sewing room is limited and I needed a large work surface to hold my portable sewing machine as well as space to lay out patterns and materials for cutting. My husband bought an unfinished slab door, sandpapered it well between each of several coats of varnish until it was satin smooth. Unfinished table legs were given this same treatment. He made a slot arrangement for a small wall bracket, in which he placed the door, making the entire expanse more solid. We used six legs to properly balance the table. This has proved to be satisfactory and it could be easily transported should we move or should we want to put this room to another use.—DOROTHY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—The slipcover on my couch is an orange-and-brown flower pattern on a white background. The white does not come clean and I do not know how to whiten it without bleaching, and that will ruin the flowers. The cover cannot be dry cleaned as it has a rubber backing. What can I do?—MRS. P. C.

DEAR POLLY—Silver cream is an excellent cleaner for plastic wastebaskets, clothes hampers, light switches and so on.—ELOISE

DEAR POLLY—Tell G.L. to use white petroleum jelly on her stiff leather jacket. Rub it in well, let it stand several hours and then thoroughly wipe off with a clean dry cloth. I also do this to my husband's wet golf shoes when they dry stiff.—MRS. H.

DEAR GIRLS—This worked like a charm on some white leather gloves that had become so stiff they looked as if they could go no place except the trash can.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—My sister uses saddle soap on her leather pillows and says that it always makes them nice and soft.—JOANNE

DEAR POLLY—and G. L.—Saddle soap may be purchased at the drugstore. Moisten a sponge and work up a lather with it by rubbing across the surface. Work this lather well into the leather jacket. Since it is already stiff, more than one application would doubtless be required. Once the leather returns to a pliable state it would be a good idea to follow the directions on the saddle soap container to keep it soft.—DOROTHY

Well now, 'tis the savin' of the green we'll be tellin' you about. The green stuff that crinkles and crackles so fine and dandy there in your pocket. So it is, then, to honor St. Pat we have a Rallye Green Camaro going for an Irish song. It's such a splendid bargain, you'll want to say it's not Rallye Green, but Kelly Green. But, of course, now we're not forgetting the other wonderful O'Chevys in our showroom. And we're not forgettin' all the other wonderful people who are not Irish. Everyone will have the luck of the Irish at our sale. So, you be on your way to see us. Faster than you can say Billy McGuire.

Laborites Entering Test Stage

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's embattled Labor party began a period of testing today in the first of eight special parliamentary elections. Its prospects were not good.

Labor held six of the eight seats vacated by death or resignation but stands a chance of losing five. The vote today was in London's South Kensington district.

a solid Conservative constituency of small-apartment dwellers and businessmen. The Tories won there in 1964 with 64 per cent of the vote. The question today was how much would the margin increase as a result of the growing displeasure with the government. A nationwide Gallup Poll gave the Conservatives a 19 per cent popularity lead. The Daily Mail's national opinion poll put the Conservative lead at 13.7, but Conservative leader Edward Heath overtook Wilson in popularity for the first time, 45 per cent to 41 per cent.

Even if Labor loses seven of the by-elections, Wilson's majority in the 630-member House of Commons would be a decisive 68. But public opinion as reflected in the election results could affect government policies. The next four by-elections come March 29 and will be influenced by next Tuesday's national budget. It is expected to be tough, reflecting Wilson's austerity program to put the economy back on its feet. Higher taxes and tighter credit are forecast.
